Horned Frog Was Without Food, Air Or Water 31 Years

(AF)—Rip Van Winkle of the toad family, the horned frog, that was walled up in the corner stone of the Eastland county court house for 31 years, sans food, water or air, was alive this morn-

More than 10,000 persons from all parts of this county yesterday viewed the frog which is on display in the window of a drug store. Aside from being slightly emaciated in a front leg the frog was in normal condition. When the corner stone was broken open Saturday the frog appeared to dead, except there slight signs of breathing. Its mouth was sealed by a film and its eyes were closed. Today the frog appeared normal, although it has not been seen to take nourishment. The frog is a typical West Texas specimen.

The frog will be kept in confinement as long as it lives, county officials said.

MOLDS IN EDUCATION.

It seemed almost inevitable, with mounting criticisms of the educational system and the still more rapidly accumulating theories of how it ought to be remade, that sooner or later there would come a cry to "stop educating our children."

The sooner all realize that education-that is, an organized sys tem for arranging a child's en vironment according to a certain preconceived pattern-will not add to the happiness of the world nor in most cases, of the child, the better for all.

Education is merely another ex pression of intellectual life-like philosophical argument or the writing of plays-but the public insists on regarding it with all the solemnity of an institution and being outrageously disappointed when it does not produce all the perfect results which it demands that institutions show and that incidentally, none of them ever do. The effects of institutionalism on college athletics have been gravely debated; but the danger of a similar institutionalism in college classrooms seems to have been Amateurism is demanded of scholastic and collegiate athletics, but the public seems incapable of that attitude toward education. It demands that education bring results-spiritually or politically or in additions to human happiness. On this score people show marked inconsistency If the college graduate spurns the overalls, education has ruined him, and, if he dons the overalls, his education did him no good.

No one has yet invented that which will remake the world. Not even the modern educational system is such an invention. But that system would come nearer remarking the world if institutions to fit one mold.

SCENE OF SEVERAL

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 17.—(AP).

Dispatches from Guadalajara today said more than seventy Catholic rebels including five chieftains, fell under federal fire yes-terday during a series of clashes in the State of Jalisco. Different groups of insurgents, who have suddenly become active in the region where the Catholic rebellion has been going on for several months, were defeated.

Three chieftains fell in battle two were captured and executed by municipal authorities, another surrendered and one leader was stated to have been seriously wounded. forty-eight rebels were actually counted dead. Eleven were taken prisoners and immediately executed. A number of others understood to have been killed in the encounters. Advices received by General Andres Figuero, military command-ant of the state, indicated that heavy fighting had been going on over an extensive area with disastrous results to the rebel cause.

Twenty-five rebels were killed and seven captured and executed at Cimutlan. Federal forces under Lieutenant Colonel Torres defeated and dispersed a large group there under command of Chieftains Cuevas, Caro and Gomez.

Twelve others were killed and two captured and executed by federal forces under General Miguel Martinez at Rancho Viejo and Agua Nueva. The insurgents were disnersed.

Simon Alarcon, commanding rebel band, was slain in battle with federal troops under Colonel Jaime Quinones at San Patricio. on trial throughout the world today more than at any time in the history of Christianity and emphasizing the fact that he proposes to do his utmost to so present the claims of the Christ to Corsicana make Him the main issue in taking of his hearers. Dr. Will Hogg, nationally known evangelist, plunged at once into the issues of his campaign last night in his opening sermon at the First Methodist church. The main auditorium of the church, including the balcony, was filled to hear the noted minister in the opening address of the series which he will delivere during the specal revival effort to continue through the next few weeks under the sponsorship he First Methodist church, Dr. R. Culver, pastor, with other churches of the city-co-operating. "The Gallilean Accent" was Dr.

Hogg's subject last night and he based his discourse upon the experience of Simon Peter at the trial of the Saviour when he was discovered in his backsliding and desertion of the Master and identified as a supposed follower of the Christ by his dialect. "Thy speech betrayeth thee" was text, and the sermon constituted a heart-searching challenge to those whose lips profess the name of Christ and whose lives compromise and testify against him in his hour of testing and trial. Informal in Address.

Delightfully informal in his address, spontaneous and wholesouled in his presentation, simple and straightforward in his methods, yet rising to thrilling climaxes, stirring word pictures, and dramatic presentations, Dr. Hogg his opening address gave evidence of those traits which have for him a reputation as one of the which made him one of the most dended. widely appreciated Chautauqua and Lyceum entertainers.

SEVERE COLD SPELL

W. L. Roberts, who has been carrying the mail on the rural route out of Corsicana for a number of years, was in the Sun office late Friday afternoon and stated that 24 years ago Friday one of the longest and most severe cold spells in his memory blew up from the north. Mr. Roberts said that when he left Corsicana on his route a light warm mist was falling from the south but by the time he was five or six miles out the wind changed to the north and sleet began falling. When he got back to Corsicana his slicker wa frozen stiff and the ground was covered with sleet. What Are You Raising Cotton For?

Fun or profit? Exercise or gain? As a speculation or an investment of time and

Can you produce it for less than 17 cents a pound—the price now offered for middling cotton delivered at New Orleans next October?

Weevils and Root Rot

Weevils and root rot last year reduced the average acre yield in Texas to 126 pounds. At 17 cents a pound that would mean only $20.42 an acre. The cost of breaking, planting, cultivating, picking and ginning, with interest on investment and wear and tear upon equipment, will be more than that.

Weevils and root rot are still with us, and under similar weather conditions will do similar damage in 1928.

There Is A Way of Profit

A crop rotation system of cotton, corn and oats on land at the Temple Experiment Station for a period of six years, brought an average profit of $15.96 an acre. Land at the same place planted every year in cotton during the same six years brought an average profit of only $7.33 an acre. A four-year rotation including cow peas brought even larger returns by almost entirely preventing loss by root rot.
